HIS LAST WORDS.

HOW PRESIDENT GARFIELD DIED.

Sad Scenes at His Redside-His Appeal to General Swalm to Relleve Illim of the Terrible Pains-Mrs. Garfield and Others Witness the Dissolution.

Ry Associated Press.

Long Branch, Sept. 20 .- Judge-Advocate-General Swaim, who has been with Presi dent (arfield continuously since he was shot, and who was the only one with the President when he commenced sinking last night, made the following statement to a representative of the Associated Press to-day: "It was my night to watch with the President. I had been with him a good deal of the time from three o'clock in the afternoon. A few minutes before ten o'clock I left Colonel Rockwell, with whom I had been talking for some minutes in the large hall, and proceeded upstairs to the President's room. On entering I found Mrs. Garfield sitting by his bedside. There were no other persons in the room. I said to her, 'How is everything going?' She replied, 'He is sleeping sicely.' I then said, 'I think you had better go to bed and rest.' I asked her what had been prescribed for him to take during the night. She replied that she did not know; that she had given him milk-punch at eight o'clock. I then said.

*If you will wait a moment I will go futo the docroom and see what is to be given during the

*There is beef-tea down stairs. Daniel knows where to get it. I then went into the doctors' room; I found Dr. Bliss there, and asked him what was to be given during the night. He answered: 'I think I had better fix up a list, and will bring it into you profits soon.' I then went will bring it into you pretty soon.' I then went back into the surgeons' room and had some little conversation with Mrs. Garfield. She felt of the President's hand and laid her hand on his forebead, and said, 'He seems to be in a good condition,' and passed out of the room. I immediately felt his hands, feet, and knees. I thought that his kness seemed a little cool, and got a fiannel cloth, heated it at the fire, and laid it over his limbs. I also heated another cloth and laid it over his right hand, and then sat down in a chair least the fire, and laid it over his right hand.

I was hardly seated when Dr. Boynton came in and felt the President's pulse.

and felt the President's pulse. I asked him how it seemed to him. He replied: 'It is not as strong as it was this afternoon, but very good.' I said: 'He seems to be doing well.' 'Yes,' be answered, and passed out. He was not in the room more than two minutes. Shortly after this the President awoke. As he turned his head on awakening I arose and took hold of his hand. I was on the left-hand side of the bed as he lay. I remarked: 'You have had a nice, comfortable sleep.' He then said: 'Oh! Swaim, this terrible pain,' placing his right hand on his breast about over the region of the beart. I asked him if I could do anything for him. HE SAID, 'SOME WATER.'

I went to the other side of the room and poured about an ounce and a half of Poland water into a glass and gave it to him to drink. He took the glass in his hand, I raising his head as usual, and drank the water very naturally. I then handed the glass to the colored man, Daniel, who came in during the time I was getting the water. Afterward I took a napkin and wiped his forehead, as he usually perspired on waking. He then said; 'Oh, Swaim, this terrible pain; press your hand on it,' I laid my hand on his cheat. He then threw both hands up to the side and about on a line with his head and exclaimed; 'Oh, Swaim, can't you ston this?' and accan.' (Oh Swaim, can't you stop this?' and again: 'Oh, Swaim!" 1 then saw him looking at me with a staring expres-sion. I asked him if he was suffering much pain. Receiving no answer, I repeated the question, with like result. I then concluded

THAT HE WAS EITHER DYING or was having a severe spasm, and called to Daniel, who was at the door, to tell Dr. Bliss and Mrs. Gar-field to come in immediately, and glanced at the small clock hauging on the chaudelier nearly over the foot of his bed and saw that it was ten minutes past ten o'clock. Dr. Bliss came in within two or three minutes. I told Daniel to bring the light—a little candle which habitually sat behind a screen rear the door. When the light shone full on his face I saw that he was dying. When Dr. Bliss came in a moment after I said, 'Doctor, have you any stimulants? He seems to be dying.' He took hold of his wrist as if feeling or his pulse, and said: 'Yos, he is dying.' I then said to Daniel, 'Run and arouse the house.' At that moment Colonel Rockwell came in, when In a very few moments Mrs. Garfield came in and said, 'What does this mean?' and the mo-iment after exclaimed: 'Oh, why am I made to suffer this cruel wrong?' At 10:35 p. m. the sacrifice was completed.

HE BREATHED HIS LAST. caimly and peacefully." At the final moment the following persons were present: Mrs. Garfield and Molly, Drs. Bliss, Agnew, and Boynton; General Swaim, Colonel and Mrs. Rockwell, J. Stanley own, C. O. Rockwell, and Daniel Spriggs.

JAMES G. BLAINE.

To Lowers, Minister:

James A. Garfield, President of the United States, died at Elberon last night at ten minutes before cleven o'glock. For nearly eighty days he suffered great pain, and during the entire period exhibited extraor-dinary rationes, fortitude and Christian resig-nation. The sorrow to the country is deep and universal. Fifty million of people arand os mourners by lits bler. To-day at his residence in the city of New York Chester A. Arthur, Vice-President, took the cath as President, to which he accedes by virtue of the Constitution. President Arthur has entered upon the discharge of his duties. You will formally communicate these facts to the British government and transmit this dispatch by telegraph to the American Ministers on the continent for communication to the governments to which they are re-BLAINE, Secretary.

There is a great deal of interest manifested as to whether President Arthur will occupy the White House as his residence. Of course he the white House as his residence. Or course he will not live there at once, as an opportunity must be given to Mrs. Garfield to move her personal effects, and, besides, the house needs cleaning and repairing. It is mentioned in this connection that President Johnson lived for all reports outside of the White House after the Action President Lincoln and its themselve. the death of President Lincoln, and it is thought that President Arthur will live at Senator Jones house, on Capitol Bill. His office will be, or use, at the White House, where he will transact the public business.

New York, Sept. 20 .- It is asserted here authority that an extra session of Congress will be called at once, and the appearance of the ruler may be looked for in a few days.

HIS LOVING MOTHER.

How She Received the News of Her Son'

CLEVELAND, OHIO, Sept. 20 .- The mother of President Garfield is now at Solon with her daughter, Mrs. Larrabec. The Herald special from Solon says: Until three days ago full particulars of the situation were telegraphed with the greatest regularity to friends in Solon. Since that date only meagre dispatches were sent, and the sus-pense of the household can only be imagined. Saturday night and Sunday night Mrs. Larrabet and the President's mother slept together, and the former affirms that Mrs. Garfield did not sleep at all. Her anxiety rendered sleep out of the question.

LAST NIGHT HER EXHAUSTION, occasioned by lack of rest the two nights previous, induced a sleep which, members of the family say, exceeded in length any previous sleep of the old lady. At five o'clock Tuesday morning the village bells tolled. At six o'clock came the following private telegram:

To Mrs. Etria Gamphelbi
James died this evening at 10-25. He calmly breathed his life away.

Mrs. Larmbee's first thought was of her mother.
The latter was sleeping calmly, and they did not awake her. Not until eight o'clock did the old lady awaken, baving slept constantly since eleven
p. m. At that hour Mrs. Larmbee passed her door with a heavy here; and found her dessed and ELBERGY, N. J., Sept. 19. with a beavy heart, and found her dressed and

READING THE BIBLE.

It was thought best not to break the news until Mrs. Garfield had eaten breakfast. Oddly enough the old lady did not insist upon hearing the news until the meal was finished, then toking the fatal telegram from the shelf she was about to read it, but Miss Ellen took it from her trembling hands. "Grandms," she said, "would you be surprised to get bad news this morning?"

"Why, I don't know," said the oid lady.
"I shouldn't," said Mrs. Larrabee.
"I have been fearing and expecting it all the orning,"

"Grandma," said Ellen, "there is bad news."
"Is be dead," asked the old lady, tremulously.

The quick tears started in the sensitive eyes The quick tears started in the sensitive eyes.

There was no violent paroxysm of grief. No expression of frenzy told of the anguish within. "Is it true?" she asked, with quivering lips.
Then the Lord help me, for if he is dead what hall I do?"

She was rendered weak and a little nervous by the announcement and was obliged once or twice to repair to her room, where in solitude she might begin to comprehend the awful truth; but she was not content to remain there, and soon returned to the sitting-room. About half-past nine-Mrs. Garfield was found sitting in a rockingchair waiting for news. The morning papers she read with eagerness. "It cannot be that James is dead," she murmured. "I cannot understand it. I have no further wish to live, and I cannot live if it is so." Although her general health is good at present, many fear that her words are prophetic, and Mrs. Larrabee dares not hope otherwise her-

Comments of the London " News." London, Sept. 21.—The News says: his melancholy crisis all Englishmen will feel for beir kinsmen beyond the Atlantic. They will comprehend better than any nation in which self-government is less fully developed how great, it not irreparable, is the loss whom his countrymen lew short months ago elected to be Chief Magistrate of the American Republic Before he had time to do more than show that he had in him the promise of a real statesman and genuine leader he has been numbered with the illustrious men who have preceded bim. Apart altogether from politics, and even from national interests, this terrible catastrophe cannot but appeal to the common feelings of humanity.

What the London "Times" Says.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The Times says: hardly less then a national calamity. In all ranks, from Queen to peasant, there is the most heart-felt sympathy for the between widow and the nlured Nation. The career of President Garifeld is of the kind which appeals to the best facilings and much cherished traditions of our people. His early poverty, his manful independence, his hardwon attainments, his integrity of character had all caused his career to be walched as that of a man of exceptional powers and brilliant promise."

ARRANGEMENTS

FOR THE DEAD MARTYR'S FUNERAL.

The Ourstion of the Trial of Guiteau in New Jersey-President Arthur's Arrival at Elberon-The Coroner's Inquest Abandoned-Mrs. Garfield Reported III.

Epecial to THE REPULICAN.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sept. 20,-Mr. Beneliet, the New York undertaker, will return to El-beron at half-past seven o'clock this evening, bringing a black cloth-covered casket, with black silk cord frimmings, velvet mouldings, up-holstered in white satin. It has a silver plate on the lid, with the following inscription: "James Abraham Garffeld, born November 19, 1831; died, President of the United States, 1881." Autorier-General MacVeagh has just made the following statement; The funeral cortege will leave Eiberon on Wednesday at ten s. m., proceeding direct to Washington, where it will arrive at four p. m. and be received by guard of the naval and military and by the same escorted to the Capitol. The remains will lie in state in the retunds of the Capitol until five p. m. Friday. At three p. m. Friday brief religious services will be held in the Capitol. The remains will arrive in Cleveland at two p. m. Saturday and will be recleved and taken in charge by the municipal authorities under the direction of Gov-ernor Foster. The remains will lie in state in Cleveland till Monday at two p. m., when the funeral will be held, and the burial will be in Lake View Cemetery. Ex-President and Mrs. Grant and ex-President and Mrs. Hayes will be invited to join the funeral train in Objo. Most urgent requests have been received from Phila-delphia, New York, Pittsburg, and other cities that the body may lie in state there, but on account of the severe and protracted strain which a compliance with these requests would entail upon Mrs. Garfield, it is thought best not to account the city honors, which these cities not to accept the civic honors which these citti desire to confer upon the illustrious and beloved dead. The Governor of New Jersey, with his official staff, have called to-day to offer sympathy and escort and such other courtesy as might be acceptable. They will on Wednesday constitute a part of the funeral cortege as far as the boundaries of the State. It is

rived at Elberon, and have entered Francklyn Cottage at five p. m. pecial to THE REPUBLICAN. Long Branch, Sept. 20, 4 p. m.-Viewing the constantly shifting throng of people on porches and lawns and paths of Elberon to-day, and knowing who lies dead in Francklyn Cettage the thought recurs again and again, "This is history." At half-past three o'clock General Grant crossed from the hotel to the cottage, and almost at the same moment President Arthur, with Attorney-General MacVeagh, emerged from MacVeagh's cottage and met General Grant on the porch of the Francklyn. Removing their hats they entered. In person and manner General Grant and President Arthur are very unlike. Grant seems grim and solid as a rock, too compac and solid for grace of action or beauty of form, His knees seems a trifle stiff, and his large head seems very close to his broad shoulders. He was built for strength. Arthur, on the other hand, is tall, well proportioned, and graceful. He has the air and manuer of a finished gentleman a sort of nobleman in aspect and carriage. At four they leave the cottage, and cross over to Mac-Veagh's cottage, where they remain with the Cabi-net and others for a few minutes. President Arthur and General Grant then enter a carriage, and are driven to Elberon Station to take the 420 train for New York. The throng of people who have watched these men and their movements with such eager interest quickly becomes thin and scattering. Meanwhile the familiar forms of Drs. Bliss, Agnew, Boynton, and Hamilton are seen moving here and there on vari-ous errands. The details of arrangements and preparation are so many that each of these gentlemen is preoccupied with the immediate business on hand, and none of them can afford time to stop and talk. The next event of importance looked for is the autopsy. Special to THE REPUBLICAN. Long Branch, N. J., Sept. 20, 9:50 p. m. -A strong effort was made this afternoon by a number of influential persons to arrange so that the people here-residents and temporary sojourncrs-shall have an opportunity to view the reof the delay incident to such an arrangement, Attorney-General MacVeagh, who has charge of the whole matter, decided that the request should be granted, and an hour-from nine to ten to-morow morning-will be devoted to that ceremony This news has spread throughout the country, and the early trains to Elberon will bring down large crowds. During the afternoon the weary attendants of the executive household have been busily to Francklyn Cottage at the time of

THE PRESIDENT'S REMOVAL Most of these will be sent directly to Menter: the remainder will go back to Washington with the personal baggage of the family. During the day many telegrams of condolence and sympathy were received by Mrs. Garfield from distinguished persons both in this country and Europe. Those who neve met Mrs. Garfield say that she bears up won derfully under her crushing bereavement and has not given way for a moment. Up to this hour no change has been made in the arrangements for the removal to Washington to-morrow, as already given in these dispatches.

AS NIGHT DEAWS ON the scene at Elberon becomes more weirdly mournful. The lights that gleam from the windows of Francklyn cottage are subdued, save in one room, next to the sea, where they shine brightly through the slats of the drawn blind. In this room the autopsy is being conducted. The irst incision was made a few minutes after four first incision was made a few minutes after four o'clock, and the work is not yet done. As the daylight faded away lamps were procured from the hotel, and by their aid the work is to be fin-ished. Since twillight the question has been asked hundred of times, Why is the post-mortem proonged so far, when it was generally agreed among the physicians this morning that it could be com-pleted in less than an hourand a half? There comes from one who was present during the first two hours of the examination a statement that the

HAS NOT YET BEEN FOUND. although a thorough search has been made of that portion of the iliac region where it was supposed to be imbedded. While the work goes on crowds of correspondents block up the pus-angeways and portions of the hotel, walving for the formal statement of the result which has been promised them by those in charge. The shadow of a deep sorrow hovers over this beautiful spot, where a few short weeks ago rang out the light laughter of those who make a toil of pleasure There have been no intrusions upon the sacred sorrow of the grief-stricken household. Time, the guards still listlessly pace the pathways—their first have worn in the green sward -but no one is chal-lenged. None go in or out save those who are an thorized to pass the threshold.

A CHILLY MIST has dropped down pail-like seaward and sbuts in the horizon like a shroud. Occasionally some one passes out from the quadrangle of sentinels and is passes out from the quedrangie of sentiness and is bestegred by those who want to learn the result At last the antopsy is over. Dr. Bliss comes over to the hotel, and pauses as he moves toward the supper-room to say, "The bullet perforated the vertebral column. It is vindication enough for the doctors." Then Attorney-General MacVeagh make-an informal statement and locates this perforation near the region of the heart, but adds that the official statement will soon be ready, and advises all to wait for that, as it will be directed as much as possible of all technicalities and made pur posely plain. This will be laid before the Cal and given to the Associated Press, when the great public can judge for itself as to the conditio the long struggle between life and death. The au-topay being the last thing to look for to-night, the crowd thins out and a rush is made for the tele

The trains erriving continue to bring in crowds of people, and in view of the fact that some time must necessarily be consumed in preparing the casket for transportation, the time in which the public will be permitted to view the President's mains has been changed so as to give the hour from 8:20 to 8:30 for that purpose. During the morning there were a number of rumors affoat to the effect that under the operations of the law of New Jersey if would be necessary to have an in-quest held by the coroner for this county, and that to avoid the necessity of such a compilance with the local laws President Arthur in the county. The story lell to pieces from its own weight. At 11:49 o'clock Attorney-General MacVeagh entered the office of the hotel and in formed the waiting crowd that the last bulletin, embodying the result of the autopsy, would be over from the physicians in a few minutes. Very shortly thereafter the agent of the Associated Press came in with the bulletin. When it was read aloud to the assemblage there was general surprise among those who had not heard of the inelators considered. dents connected with the first search for the ball in the illac region.

AFTER THE READING OF THIS BULLETIN the crowd quickly dispersed, and at midnight the vicinity of Eiberon was for the flex time since the arrival of the wounded sufferer completely deeted. Colonel Corbin, with one or two friends of the late President, are the watchers to-night Shortly after midnight the hotel was closed, and the only sounds heard were the tramp of the sentinels and the hoarse murmur of the surf, moan-ing its requiem for the distinguished dead.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR.

Branch-Future Movements.

New York, Sept. 20 .- President Arthur rrived at his residence in this city at six o'clock this evening alone. He stated that he would not this evening alone. He stated that the would go to Washington yet, and, being tired, he would not receive any callers, but would retire for the right. Shortly after Colonel George Bliss ar-rived and entered the house, where he rived and entered the house, where he seemed to be a welcome visitor. At nine o'clock Senator J. A. Logan and Police Commissioner stephen B. French called, and remained in conmitation with President Arthur for some time. At oleven o'clock a coupe drove up to the door and General Grant was seen to enter the house without the formality of ringing the bell.

EX-SENATOR CONGLING HAS NOT YET visited the President. Eithu Root, Alderman Waite, Park Commissioner Wales, and Senator Jones were also among the visitors. General Grant left shortly after eleven o'clock, and it was authoritatively stated that the President would not leave for Washington to-night. When President Arthur went to Long Branch to-day police readquarters detectives were on the same train They were dressed in citizen's clothes, and it is doubtful if Mr. Arthur knew that they were offi-cers, if he noticed them at all.

THE DETECTIVES, IT IS SAID, were armed and were acting under private orders from Inspector Byrnes and President French, of the Police Board. It is supposed that they were pre-ent to guard President Arthur against any vio-lence, although there was no reason to apprehend that any person would wish to attack him. No definite information as to the movements of offiprobable that the body will be viewed by the pub-tic here Wednesday morning between eight and dine. It is maintained by persons who are acquinited with the laws of the State that an inquest cannot be prevented if insisted upon, and that in the event of a conclusion that the President's death was caused by a gun-shot wound the criminal presence can be demanded in the State. This question is creating considerable excitement and annoyance inasmuch as if earried out in accordance with this idea the remains will be necessarily delayed here until Gui-teau's arrival.] Dr. Bliss describes the LAST MOMENTS OF THE PRESIDENT as being very calm and, with the exception of the pain complained of in the region of the heart, which the patient denoted by placing his hand on his left breast, there was no struggle whatever His breathing during the last moments was heavy though not laborious. Attorney-General MacVeagh, who has charge of the arrangements for removing the remains from Long Branch to Washington, says the Penusylvania Railroad will send four coaches here to be used on the occasion. The train will be made up as follows: First car, baggage, second the whole country would have cried out against the surgeons for not keeping their knives away car, remains of the President and escort; third car, Mrs. Garfield and family, and fourth car, mem-bers of the Cabinet and the attending surgeons The train will take the same route as that taken when the President was removed from Washing ton. No stops will be made except at water sta tions, and no newspaper correspondents will be permitted on the train. General Arthur and Secrearies Blaine and Lincoln arrived at Eiberon at

of those managing the arrangements for the removal that no train shall be run either in advance or after the President's special for observation or other purposes. The special train will be run stowly and all through trains will be laid over for it to pass. The present intention is that the train shall leave here about ten s. m., and arrive in Washington between four and five p. m. After lying in state in the rotunda of the Capitol on Thursday and Friday the remains will be again taken charge of by the Pennsylvania Railroad and conveyed direct to Pittsburg, thence to THE CORONER'S INQUEST of the President's remains has been abandoned by the local authorities. Four soldiers are now performing picket duty about the cottage. With the exception of two or three excited men, who threw up their hats as Arthur passed up the lane to the cottage, there were no vulgar manifests ons. The crowd, while excited, were decidedly quiet, and appeared to properly realize the situation. The carriage used to carry President A thur and Secretary Blaine from the depot to Gen eral MacVengh's cottage was purchased by the dend President only a short time before he was shot. A monogram, formed of the letters "J. A. G.," is on the door panel each side of the vehicle, District-Attorney Laning said to an Associated Press reporter: "There is no doubt but that the

If the United States authorities demand the right to try Guiteau, and insist on holding him at Washington to await trial, the New Jersey State authorities will not ask to have him sent here. We have not come to any conclusion in the matter. General Arthur left for New York on a special

This is on Dr. Bliss' authority, who said an hour ago that Mrs. Garfield was very comfortable. Be-fore leaving for New York General Arthur called upon Mrs. Garfield, and left the cottage wearing an expression of great sorrow and sympathy. Attorney-General MacVeagh says that it has now ely decided that the train bearing the enuins of the late President will leave here at ten

An Explanation Wanted

Notwithstanding the order of the Nav Department closing the several naval establish-ments in other parts of the Union, and the further act that every other Government department is Washington was closed yesterday, the employees of the navy-yard in this city were obliged to work as usual. They are justly indiguant on account of this discrimination against them. It seems is order for some one to explain why the genera order for closing should not apply to navy-yard

MEDICAL TALK.

Interview With Dr. Smith Townshend Expressions of Other Physicians Among the members of the medical pro fession in this city, and doubtless elsewhere, there keen interest to see the presentation made of Predent Garfield's case in the autopsy. It is antici pated that the result will prove the fallibility of diagnoses and that some of the features of the case will create general surprise, if not wonder. Dr.

Smith Townshend was asked by a representative of THE REPUBLICAN last night whether, in view of all the facts as developed in the President's case, he timid one.

"No," said the Doctor. "Of course if all that has happened during the past ten weeks could have been foreseen at the outset there is no doubt that the course of treatment would have been very different. But, if you recollect, when the wounded man was first taken to the White House he was suffering under the effects of the shock; his pulse was up to 138, and he was apparently in a dying condition. An operation at that time of course was out of the question. Even a non-professional man must see that. On the following day he was also in a collapsed condition, and an operation was not advisable, as he might have died from its the ball had entered the abdominal cavity, and that peritonitis would set it. He showed no symptoms of peritonitis, however, and after recovering from the shock was apparently going to get well. For that reason a conservative treatment was adopted. This is a conservative treatment was adopted. This is adjacent soft parts, and lodging always advisable when the exigencies of the care permit it. Had the beroic treatment been fol-lowed and the patient had died in consequence,

You think then that the doctors have done all that could have been done?"
"Yes; I think they have done all in their power as matters developed. When the first rigor took place, had his condition permitted it, that would have been early enough to remove the ball; but no one had the least idea of the wonderful recuscrative power of the patient, and hence an peration so serious was not considered. At that ime the patient was undoubtedly suffering from pyiemia or septiemmia. Recovery, however, was not impossible even at this time if no further vistation of the blood took place. It was hoped that at the end of seven or eight weeks the ball, wherever it was, would become encysted and thenceforth be harmless. In my own mind I am satisfied that the ball is not encysted, and that the irritation caused by it produced the constant uppuration.

" Do you think, Doctor, that the surgeons treated he public fairly in their official bulletins?" "Well, no; that is one just cause of complaint against them. They did not fool the profession at all; they did mislead the people for a while; but the trick was soon discovered, and in consequence opic, as a rule, are incensed against them. Dr iss explains the reason for the deceptive bulle ins as being that the President insisted on having such builetin read to him before it was published While this may have been true at first, after the putient was infected with pyzzola his mind was louded a great part of the time and he did not eare much for the bulletins or anything else; and even if he did some other means of Ageping the public informed of the true state of the Armight have been devised. The truth is Dr. Illies and not want to give offense to any of the White House people, and he soon found that the wishes and hopes of Colonel Corbin and Colonel Rockwell and others in attendance there had supplanted their thoughts, and that they became displayed whenever it was supressed that became displeased whenever it was suggested that the President might die, and it was probably for this russon that Surgeon-General Barnes was called an plarmist, because he expressed the belief that the wound migh have other than a favorable termination My only suprise is that Aguew and Hamilton per mitted the deception as they did. I have a grea deal of sympathy for Dr. Bliss; for, while he treated the profession badly, I think he did all in his power to save the President's life, although I doubt whether he has had any hopes in that direction since the first rigor. Could the sad end which has just come have been foreseen there is no doubt but that some effort would have been made to remove the ball even to the adoption of Symme's plan of laying open the abdomen and searching for the bullet. DR. W. W. JOHNSTON was asked by a friend what he thought of the so-called diagnosis of the case given to the public by Dr. Bliss a few hours prior to General Garffeld's "If Dr. Dliss is correctly reported," said Dr. ence of his diagnosis. IDr. Bilis,' sentence was After he (the President) was wounded the limited area of traumatic trouble in the lower portion of the right lung was found due to hypostatic congestion.'] That is false pathology—the statement is absurd. And there are other things in that diagnosis which cause one to suppose either that Dr. Bliss has been inaccurately reported, or that he is so used up by the great strain upon him and by loss of sleep that he is not able to make a clear statement. Dr. Stanton felt relieved that the agony is over. Since it was evident that death must come it was not less than bumane to wish that the end might come soon and bring relief from the terrible suf of the result of the autopsy upon the President's remains, and the finding of the ball near the heart has created a profound sensation here, agreeing as it does with the pronounced opinion of an eminent surgeon of this city, who is reported to have stated three weeks since that the autopsy would verify his opinion.

THE ASSASSIN'S TRIAL.

The Law Ample to Insure the Jarisdic

tion of Our Courts. A well-known lawyer, who has had nany years' experience in courts and editing law publications, was asked by a REPUBLICAN representative last night if Guiteau could be tried for murder in the District of Columbia, his victim, the President, having died without the jurisdiction of our courts. "Yes; he can be here tried. Our court has jurisdiction ample for the purposes of an indictment against Guiteau for this murder. I have read in our city papers communications in which it was as that the assassin could not be legally here, because the death resulting from Guiteau's

Hon, Samuel Shellabarger said yesterday mornand written statements, as well as the testimony at those who saw him commit the deed, would be sufficient evidence to secure conviction. He said however, that he spoke only as a lawyer, without knowledge of what would be done.

General Sherman in nocturnal attire appeared at the window of his boudeir late last Monday night, and conversed about the President's death with triends who were on the sidewalk. The p.tr of his remarks is in the following, uttered in h usually emphatic manner: "Let the law have its The military force stationed at the jail is Even twenty soldiers stationed there ought to be able to keep back a mob of ten thousand."

STAUNTON, VA., Sept. 20.-The deepest gloom overspread the city. Bells were toiled this morning and minute guns were fired. Business is practically suspended. The Supreme Court of Appeals now in session here has adjourned for the day. In making the announce-ment the president of the court, Judge Christian, addressed the bar in the following terms; "The whole country," he said, "is in tears. Virginia weeps. The South stands with the North appalled with sorrow by the bier of the great and oble man whose suffering and courage and pa-cept struggle with death has swept the tient struggle with death has swept the chords of human sympathy everywhere, and stirred to the depths the heart of our common humanity. The assassin's work is finished. The President is dead. God Grant that we may not hereafter have to say that republican liberty died with him, for the assassin's hand which strikes down the Chief Magistrate of a great country is a blow struck at liberty itself."

ASTOUNDED DOCTORS.

WHAT THE AUTOPSY DISCLOSED.

The Ball Found Encysted Near the Region of the Heart-Numerous Abscesses Discovered-The Cause of Death Officially Declared by the Physicians, Elberon, N. J., Sept. 20.-The followg official bulletin was prepared at eleven o'clock o-night by the surgeons who have been in atendance upon the late President: "By previous arrangement a post-moriem examination of the body of President Garfield was made this evening In the presence and with the assistance of Drs. Hamilton, Agnew, Bliss, Barnes, Woodward, Reyburn, Andrew Smith, of Elberon, and Acting Assistant Surgeon D. S. Lamb, of the Army Medical Misseum, Washington. The operation was performed by D. S. Lamb. It was found that the ball, after fracturing the right eleventh rib, had passed through the spinal column, in front of the spinal canal, fracturing the body of the first lumbar vertebra, driving a number of the small fragments of bone into the

BELOW THE PANCHEAR. about two and one-half inches to the left of the spine, behind the peritoneum, where it had become completely encysted. The immediate cause of death was secondary hemorrhage from one of the mesenteric arteries adjoining the track of the ball, the blood rupturing the peritoneum, and nearly a pint escaping into the abdominal cavity. This hemorrhage is believed to have been the cause of the severe pain in the lower portion of the chest, complained of just before death. An abscess cavity, six inches by four inches in dimensions, was found in the VICINITY OF THE GALL BLADDER, between the liver and the transverse colon, which were strongly adherent. It did not involve the substance of the liver, and no communication was formed between it and the wound. A long suipurating channel extended from the external wound between the loin muscles and the right kidney almost to the right groin. This channel, now known to be due to the burrowing of pus from the wound, was supposed during life to have been the track of the ball. On an examination of the organ of the chest evidences of severe ronchitis were found on both sides of the bronchoumonia of the lower portions of the right lung and, though to a much loss extent, of the left,

THE LUNGS CONTAINED NO ABSCERGES and the heart no clots. The liver was enlarged and fatty, but free of abscesses. Nor were any found in any other organ except the left kidney, which contained near its surface a small abscess about one-third of an inch in diame-

tor. In reviewing the history of the case Biral arrection with the autopsy it is quite c. lies that the different supportating sur-faces, and sire ally the fractured spongy tissue of the vertebra, furnish a sufficient explanation of the septic condition which existed.

secial Correspondence of The Republican.
Wannenton, Va., Sept. 20.—General Peyton Wise, a nephew of the late Henry A. Wise, and L. L. Lewis, district attorney for the eastern district of Virginia, fought a duel this afternoon at two o'clock four miles and a half from this place, on the White Sulphur Springs road. Ten paces were marked off and but one shot exchanged. Neither of the principals were struck. Mr. G. U. Williams, a well-known lawyer of Richmond, acted for General Wise.

PERFORS WERE THE WEAPONS used. Wise was familiar with their use, Lewis was not. At the word fire both raised their weapons. Lewis fired, his ball striking on the ground at Wise's leet. The latter discharged his firearm in the air. The parties then 'harriedly left the ground, and took the train for Washington This meeting grew out of the fact that several Richmond papers reported that George D. Wise, brother of General Peyton Wise, in a speech in Southwestern Virginia, had charged ex-Senator John F. Lewis, the brother of i. L. Lewis, with official corruption. The latter, in a speech delivered at Petersburg, denounced George D. Wise

A LIAR AND A SCOUNDREL General Peyton Wise, in the absence of his brother, wrote a note to Lewis asking him if he was resorted correctly in so denouncing George D. Lewis responded that he was. Then General Pey-ton Wise published a scurrilous letter against Lewis in the Richmond Dispatch. Whereupon the atter promptly challenged Wise.
THE DUEL WAS TO HAVE been fought at Bladensburg, Md., on Monday, and one of the parties was in Washington on that day, but for some reason or other both came to this place, where the fight took place to day. General Peyton wise and his brother George D, are both Bourbon Democrats. Lewis is a Republican and Readjuster. George D. Wise is the Congressmanelect from the Richmond district-the successor of General Joseph E. Johnston. It is asserted here to-night that ANOTHER DUEL WILL SHORTLY OCCUP between George D. Wise, who is said to be thirst-ing for gore, and a member of the Lewis family, John H. Wise, the son of the late Henry A. Wise, and cousin of the above-named Wises, is a Readjuster, and is about as bitter in his scatiments against Bourbonism as any one in Virginia. [All the parties to the duel, including Wise, Lewis, and Colonel Popham, were in the city last night, having arrived from the field of "honah" by the "kyars" from Warrenton. All heads had promised each other to say nothing about it on the "honsh of Virginia gentlemen, by Gawd, sir," and yet before midnight a half dozen newspaper writers had corraled the full particulars and were hawking it about the streets at $8 per column. One of the principals (Wise) left the city late last night, it is said, for his home in Richmond, and at the depot "give everything dead away" to a reporter, in confidence, for publication. One of the seconds is also said to have given graphic sketches of the
